Course dates:

Customised to needs

Course location:

Geneva, Switzerland

The face of conflict has transformed from the geopolitical power shifts of conventional warfare to more fluid, transnational aggression often initiated by non-state groups. Peacebuilding is rapidly evolving. In recent years, peacebuilding interventions have grown in size, complexity and in the diversity of actors involved. No single set of actors can address the multiplicity of post-conflict issues — a comprehensive approach is required. Peacebuilders must rise to the challenge of applying international best practices while ensuring national ownership.

COURSE FOCUS:

This course combines conceptual inputs with case studies and scenario-based skills development sessions so that you can learn how to apply best practices with the benefit of the latest theoretical insights. At the end of the course you will have developed a practical theory of change for a simulated post-conflict setting.

This course covers:

- peacebuilding fundamentals and conflict analysis - from causes, to prevention and conflict transformation
- how to transition from peace agreements to effective and accountable democratic institutions
- institutional and comprehensive approaches to crisis prevention and management
- legal dimensions of war and peacebuilding (international humanitarian law, human rights)
- security aspects of conflict transformation (security sector reform, rule of law and transitional justice/ dealing with the past)

COURSE BENEFITS

Participants focus on developing effective interventions to build sustainable peace. The course will enable you to:

- deepen your understanding and knowledge of peace and security challenges within fragile settings
- develop a comprehensive strategy from a diversity of peacebuilding tasks
- enhance your capacity to design effective and comprehensive peacebuilding policies
- develop cross-cultural understanding and gender awareness as it applies to a peacebuilding context
