

HIGH-LEVEL WORKSHOP

Lead Strategically in Turbulent Times

How to go from Strategy to Reality

Thematic cluster:

Leadership

Course dates:

8 to 10 June 2020

Course location:

Geneva, Switzerland

What factors and practices actually help you achieve your strategic intent? How can you apply these across your organisation? These are some of the questions this executive workshop will help you answer in ways you can translate directly to your environment and context.

Together with a diverse and stimulating peer group, reflect on your strategic intent, share challenges, successes, and even lessons learned from failures. One thing is for sure, you will leave energised, equipped with new insights, and clear ideas on how to turn your strategy into reality.

This executive workshop is run by the Geneva Leadership Alliance, leveraging in-depth expertise on peace, security and policy issues through the GCSP, as well as 40+ years of experience in developing leaders across all sectors through the Center for Creative Leadership.

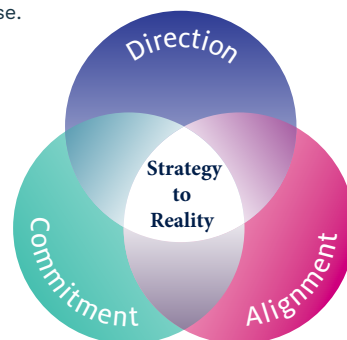

Direction, Alignment, Commitment

The outcomes of effective leadership are Direction, Alignment, and Commitment (DAC). The course will enable you to learn about and apply DAC, ensuring a long-lasting learning experience that you can put straight into practise.

COURSE BENEFITS

The programme combines peer-learning, experiential activities, self-assessment, expert-led feedback, and group discussions. Participants will directly apply the learning to real challenges that they face.

- Explore how to create direction, alignment & commitment across organisational boundaries
- Challenge your assumptions about strategic thinking and influencing, and their impact
- Learn how to leverage seemingly opposing priorities
- Gain key insights on how culture impacts strategy
- Leave with a well-formed action plan

Course Directors

Peter Cunningham is responsible for the Leadership Cluster at the GCSP. He focuses on understanding and effecting organisational and behavioural change and the leadership characteristics that contribute to high performance.

Ingrid Gázquez is the Leadership Portfolio Manager for the Geneva Leadership Alliance which aims to advance the understanding, practice and positive impact of leading in public, private, non-profit organizations and civil society.

Expert Educators

Our educators are an international team of facilitators, academics and practitioners with broad experience in leadership drawn from across sectors and disciplines. Many hold or have held senior positions and understand first-hand what it takes to be an effective leader in fast tempo, high-stake situations. They share their successes and failures and combine it with cutting-edge research to provide participants with a rich learning experience.

Who should attend

This executive workshop is open to:

- professionals with at least 5 years of leadership or management experience, or who presently have teams reporting into them (past participant profiles have included heads of organisations, directors, ambassadors, business executives, and government and military officials)
- applicants will be selected to ensure a stimulating and diverse international audience, as well as interesting hands-on challenges.
